It is expected that the tournaments will run for the remainder of the winter, each player meeting every other player.

E. S. Meigs, a Montpelier licensee, has again been discharged after having been accused of violating the terms of his license. Last week Frank Coburn declared in city court that he bought liquor of Meigs' store, when it was illegal to be sold to him. A hearing was held, and yesterday Judge Harvey announced that Meigs had been discharged for lack of evidence. At the hearing Meigs, Arthur Conlin and J. H. Senter testified that Coburn could not have bought the liquor at the time he stated he did.

Come and see Mr. Bob in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." He is a very generous hearted gentleman, invites the entire Wiggs family to a very aristocratic restaurant as he supposed. But when he asked Europeans what she liked best to eat and she answered, "Green pump," he was obliged to ask Mrs. Wiggs what she meant for he was sure there was none on the bill of fare. "Cream puffs," explained Mrs. Wiggs, slyly. "She et em onet at Mrs. Reed's, the Bourbon stock yard's wife, and she's been talkin' 'bout 'em ever since."

Those popular entertainers, the Marka Bros. Dramatic company, began a week's engagement at the Barre opera house last night and presented "At the Point of the Sword" to a crowded house. Their opening night was the most successful of any repertoire company which has shown here this season. May A. Bell Marks is with this company as usual and was accorded a cordial welcome last night. Sue was well supported, and the play was well presented. The company carries some splendid special scenery. R. W. Marks, who is with the company, says that in his 32 years' theatrical experience he has never met with greater success than this season.
